WASHINGTON, March 27.—The navy announced today that long-range Liberator bombers carried out a smashing attack on the Japanese base at Nauru Island near the Gilberts, scoring hits on installations and starting four fires.

At the same time the Navy said that Army bombers continued blasting the Japanese in the Aleutians with three attacks against Kiska and one on Abraham Harbor on Attu Island.

First Since October 24
The attack on Nauru was carried out the morning of March 26. The island is 675 miles northeast of Guadalcanal.

Hits were scored on the wharf, runway, officers' quarters and barracks area. The Navy said, "Four fires were started and several Japanese planes were damaged."

This was the first attack in that area since the Navy announced on October 24 that a task force had struck in the Gilbert and Ellice Island areas.

The Gilberts, along with the Marshalls, are important because the Japanese have established powerful bases there from which they carried out the early attacks on Wake Island at the start of the war.

Promises Destruction Of Japanese Air Force

By JOHN W. JARRELL
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

CHUNGKING, March 27.—Major Gen. Claire Chennault, commanding the United States Army Air Force in China, today promised destruction of the Japanese air force and other forces necessary to enemy prosecution of the war at a dinner given in his honor by officers of the newly created 14th air force.

The dinner was dramatically interrupted for a quarter of an hour by reports that enemy planes were overhead, but the information proved to be a false alarm.

Chennault said that with the 14th air force in action in increased strength he anticipated great victories—"decisive victories in which we shall destroy the enemy's air."

Would Limit Any President To Two Terms

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, March 27.—Rep. Mason, (R., Ill., today told the House that "in response to the action of the Illinois Legislature," he had introduced a proposed amendment to the constitution "which, if adopted, would disqualify any person from serving as president for more than two elective terms."

"We witness today," Mason said, "a grass roots demand that 'no person who has been twice elected president shall thereafter be eligible for re-election to such office.'"

British Bombers In Heavy Attacks On Ruhr District

Several Hundred Bombers
In Raid On Duisburg,
Production Center

MARKS 57TH RAID MADE ON CITY

(International News Service)

LONDON, March 27.—British heavy bombers swarmed over western Germany in strong attacks during the night on targets in the Ruhr industrial district, the air ministry announced today. Duisburg, center of Nazi war production, was blasted by a strong force of RAF bombers.

Four bombers failed to return from the night's operations. Two RAF fighter planes on offensive patrols also were missing.

It was the 57th raid of the war on Duisburg, the last previous attack having been staged on December 20.

Several Hundred Bombers
The air ministry's reference to a strong force was taken to mean that several hundred bombers took part in the Ruhr attacks. A number of "block busters" were dropped it is understood.

The night raids followed daylight sweeps by bomber and fighter squadrons on Belgium and northern France.

The big bombers which went over the Ruhr flew through thick clouds at 10,000 feet. The "Blue" alert sounded and lights began blinking out. At 10:35 the "Red" alert sounded and in a few moments the city seemed to be in complete darkness. At 10:45 the "Blue" alert again sounded and restricted travel was resumed. At 10:59 the "White" or All Clear was given.

Naturally there were some violations, but they were few. Here and there perhaps a householder had left a light burning in a home or another had not been sufficiently careful in blacking out. There were no major violations in the downtown district although a few business houses were a trifle slow in getting their lights off.

Air raid wardens, auxiliary police and the other workers of the Civilian Defense were on the job in force Friday night. Some of them made hurried trips from their homes to their posts, a few had gone to bed but were up and dressed quickly.

From observation of members of the staff in various portions of the city the comment of the executive director was right, the air raid drill and blackout was "nearly perfect."

Wickard reduced by five per cent the amount of beef, veal, lamb and mutton which quota slaughterers—those who produce more than 500—pounds of meat per quarter—may deliver to civilians during three months beginning April 1.

At the same time, he raised by five per cent permitted deliveries of pork for civilian consumption.

The change may mean that consumers—although assured only of about two pounds of meat per person weekly under rationing will have to buy more pork to obtain their full ration and slightly less of the other meats.

U. S., Britain Will Confer In Bermuda On Refugee Problem

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, March 27.—The state department today announced that the United States and Great Britain have agreed to hold a joint conference at Bermuda to consider methods of alleviating the European refugee problem.

No date has yet been set for the meeting, but it is expected to take place in the near future.

The American government, in its original proposal, suggested that the meeting be held in Ottawa. The reason for choosing Bermuda was not explained.

However, it was recalled that President Roosevelt recently expressed the view that important international conferences should be held in locations that were not easily accessible to the press and pressure groups.

Surprise Air Raid Test Here On Friday Night

"Nearly perfect" was the comment today of Louis B. Round, executive director of the Lawrence County Council of Defense, on the blackout and air raid drill held Friday night.

The first notice of the air raid drill and blackout came at ten o'clock when the "Yellow" alert sounded and in a few moments the city seemed to be in complete darkness. At 10:45 the "Blue" alert again sounded and restricted travel was resumed. At 10:59 the "White" or All Clear was given.

Naturally there were some violations, but they were few. Here and there perhaps a householder had left a light burning in a home or another had not been sufficiently careful in blacking out. ## MAY ESTABLISH PRICE CEILINGS ON FRESH FISH

Black Market In Poultry Also To Be Attacked By Food Czar

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, March 27.—The Office of Price Administration today prepared to move against skyrocketing fresh fish prices and a black market in poultry while other phases of the critical food problem awaited the attention of the nation's new food czar.

Chester C. Davis of St. Louis, new food production and distribution chief, will go to work Monday on the monumental task of providing America's 8,500,000 farmers with the farm machinery, materials, supplies and manpower necessary to attain wartime food goals.

OPA, meantime, was reported considering imposition of price ceilings on fresh fish, which have soared upward under the impact of consumer rationing of other commodities, and cracking down on widespread violations of poultry price ceilings.

Both items are unrationed and the demand for them has risen sharply as a result of the meat scarcity and the forthcoming limited rationing of meats, cheeses, canned fish, butter, fats and oils.

British Forces Driving Wedges Into Mareth Line

Attack On German Fortifications Is Proceeding
"According To Plan"

DESPERATE DEFENSE IS MADE BY GERMANS

By ROBERT G. NIXON
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, March 27.—Operations of the British Eighth Army against German positions within the Mareth line "are proceeding according to plan," an official communique from Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower announced today.

Stiff enemy resistance was acknowledged, but it was apparent that Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's crack forces have driven wedges into the German positions.

A small number of enemy planes staged a night raid on Algiers. There was heavy anti-aircraft fire of considerable duration and brilliant fireworks as red and white tracer shells and explosions lit up the skies. Some damage was done.

Editors' Note: German announcements regarding the Mareth line fighting continued to be vague. "Fresh and strong" Allied attacks on German and Italian positions were admitted. There is no question of an expected counter-offensive the Berlin radio warned its listeners.

FOREST FIRE IN NEW JERSEY IS FATAL TO THREE

Boys Burn To Death, Another
Injured, In Sweeping
Blaze In East

(International News Service)

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., March 27.—Three boys were burned to death and another was critically injured before weary firemen, handicapped by lack of sufficient equipment, brought five forest fires in central and southern New Jersey under control today.

Near the bodies of 17-year-old Alfred Ingersoll and Ralph Luder, both of May's Landing, was found the charred remains of Ralph's brother, Carl.

They and William Hoover, 24, also of May's Landing, who is in a critical condition in Atlantic City hospital, were trapped with their fire truck near Ellwood, below Hammon.

A fifth member of the truck crew, Benjamin Harris, escaped injury. Ingersoll, one of 11 children of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ingersoll, was to have been inducted into the army Friday.

Thousands of acres of pine woods were destroyed by flames in this fire and others at Buddtown, Madford Farms, Keswick Grove and Bluebell. New Jersey State Fire Warden Leroy S. Fales reported.

Arthur Mometer

I remember. I remember the days of long ago, when we could take the family car to where we'd like to go, no gasoline was rationed then, and tires could be had, and no one ever told us nay, those were the days when I remember. I remember when dog food came in cans, and one could get a pound of steak, some chops perhaps or ham. You needed money when you bought, but you could get the stuff in cans or jars or wooden boxes and always get enough. Today you have to have a card when you go to the store, for these are days of rationing, the weather's forty-four.

PA NEW OBSERVES

Saving fats and oils left over from cooking may seem a trifling and far-removed way to help win the war. But when we consider how the new sulfa drugs, made from waste fats, have saved thousands of lives already and will save thousands more, any reason we might give for not taking the trouble to save this needed material is not only unpatriotic, but unfeeling. We help ease a soldier's pain or save his life right in our own kitchens.

Six "don'ts" for preserving those precious tires have come to our attention and seem very good as reminders. It's difficult, if not impossible, to replace them once they are gone, so (1) don't make jack rabbit starts, (2) don't make tires squeal when turning, (3) don't drive your car if your wheel alignment is not correct, (4) don't scrape or bump the curb when parking, (5) don't stop too fast, and (6) don't run on a "flat."

Food rationing apparently hasn't affected the salvage can collection by the school children of the city and county. For the past week the record shows over 102,000 cans collected in the city and county, outside Ellwood City.

Fashion Note: Pa New noticed a young lady this morning who, instead of wearing her heart on her sleeve, was wearing it as a necklace. The becoming red heart, about three inches long, was attached to a long red chain.

Forty Minute Blackout Test

State Has Second Blackout Test Of Month Last Night

SOME CONFUSION ON NEW SYSTEM

HARRISBURG, March 27.—The state underwent its second blackout drill of the month last night when a 41-minute test was held.

The alert lasted from 10:20 p. m. when the blue warning was sounded, until 11:01, when the all clear was given. The red signal indicating that enemy planes were overhead, sounded at 10:36 and was followed 10 minutes later by the second blue signal. The all clear was indicated 15 minutes later over the radio and by the turning on of street lights.

It was the second blackout test under the new defense regulations which went into effect along the Atlantic seaboard on Feb. 17. A blackout was held on March 4, jointly with Maryland, Virginia and Delaware, and the new regulations received their initial test on Feb. 17 in a joint practice with Maryland and Virginia.

Double Test Coming

More daylight and night tests will follow. Eventually, it was stated, there would probably be a "double red" test. Rumors that there would be a double blackout this month proved idle.

Considerable confusion marked last night's drill in Pittsburgh, indicating that the public was not yet fully versed in the nation's new alarm system. Many lights were turned on after the second "blue" siren sounded, and some motorists failed to dim their headlights during the period before the "all clear" signal went out over the radio.

Two air raid wardens were injured slightly in Pittsburgh in falls while patrolling their beats. The mechanism in one of the sirens in the downtown area stuck right after the first "blue" alert sounded, and continued to blow for the next 20 minutes.

Civilian defense officials in Philadelphia were far from satisfied with the state-wide blackout, even though it was reported there were fewer slip-ups than in the test three weeks ago.

The conclusion of the 39-minute alert marked the first attempt to use rockets to signal the end of the test blackout. In two of the four places this was attempted, failures were reported and defense officials admitted the idea did not seem practical.

It was noticed also that when the first blue signal was sounded, traffic speeded up in an effort to reach destinations ahead of the sounding of the red signal. In addition, trolley cars failed to dim their headlights.

Attack on wharf and harbor installations. The Japanese have built one large airfield at Wewak capable of servicing 150 planes. Work is progressing on eight additional fields. Allied observations pilots have reported.

Two Hits On Vessel

A Japanese ship in the Wewak harbor was heavily damaged by two direct hits with 500-pound bombs. Reconnaissance planes reporting on the results of Thursday's attack on Ambona said that two Japanese cargo vessels attacked in the raid by heavy bombers were burning.

Allied medium bombers and fighter squadrons swept over enemy bases at Lae, Salamaua, Finschhafen and the Mubo district of New Guinea in low-level bombing and strafing attacks.

No allied planes were lost in the day's operations, the bomber squadrons attacking Wewak met heavy anti-aircraft batteries, but no enemy fighters attempted interception.

Zero Shot Down

The communiqué said one Japanese Zero fighter was shot down in the raid on Ambona. The enemy vessel hit at Ambona were an 8,000-tonner and a 6,000-tonner. The Japanese cargo ship damaged in the Wewak attack was a 4,000-ton cargo vessel.

Shore installations at Lae were fired by the allied attack. Returning pilots said the series of blazes merged into one huge flame which was visible 20 miles away.

No interception was encountered in the Mubo district south of Lae, where remnants of the Japanese forces driven from Papua are still holding out in strongly entrenched positions. Attack planes bombed and strafed the area vigorously, making 14 passes. No enemy planes challenged the allied formations.

Hanna said he approached the man for the purpose of ascertaining what he was doing outside during the blackout.

When Hanna got near the man the latter threw the acid, which was in a bottle, he asserted, and then fled.

Hanna struck the man over the head with his flashlight before the man got away, he said.

Aid Is Summoned

The air raid warden blew his whistle and other air raid wardens who were patrolling the Croton avenue side of the creek ran to his aid and Hanna was taken to the hospital.

Police Lieutenant G. S. Kennedy and other police found the bottle near the river.

They traced the bottle to a local drug store and obtained a description of the man who bought it. Chief of Police McMullen said.

"I intend that this case shall be solved," D. O. Davies, city director of civilian defense, asserted today. "If we apprehend the man I shall see that he is prosecuted."

"This is one reason why we need air raid wardens. There should always be two together, but there are not enough wardens to work this way," Davies asserted.

Chief of Detectives R. A. Criswell was conducting the investigation today, having "picked up" where the night police left off this morning.

YANK BOMBERS BLAST JAP BASE NEAR GILBERTS

British mandate, was taken over by the Japanese early in the war. This was the first attack by American planes on this base.

The island is of coral formation about 10 miles in circumference and is covered with coconut trees. The population in 1929 consisted of 134 Europeans, 1,099 Chinese, and 1,381 natives.

In the raids on Kiska at the other end of the Pacific, Army Liberators and Mitchell bombers, escorted by fighter planes blasted Kiska three times, dropping bombs on a runway, hangar, and camp area.

"Low flying fighters strafed Japanese personnel," the Navy also reported.

It was recalled that the first American offensive blow of the war was struck in the Marshall and Gilbert Island areas on January 31, 1942, when a task force under Admiral William F. Halsey Jr. blasted a half dozen Japanese bases.

In mid-August of last year, a Marine raiding party wiped out Japanese installations and military personnel in a surprise blow on Makin Island in the Gilberts.

The attack on Nauru apparently is part of the American offensive strategy to smash important Japanese bases which still threaten American supply lines to Australia, and the South Pacific.

The Liberators bombers were believed to have carried out the raid from the improved American airfield on Guadalcanal in the Solomons.

"We are free men, willing to fight for our freedom and willing to sacrifice ourselves if necessary for the cause of freedom throughout the world. Your eagerness to come to grips with the enemy is no more than is expected of free Americans. I am happy to be your commander."

The meal was nearing an end when Chennault stood up after a message had been handed to him and said quietly:

"I am sorry to interrupt, but Japanese planes are overhead. Please turn out your lights."

Immediately, Lieut. Col. Herbert Morgan, of Freedom, Pa., chief of operations, and others sped from the room to their posts in utter darkness. Chennault remarked:

"Can anyone tell some funny stories?"

This broke the tension and Corp. Addison Bailey, of Bonham, Texas, formerly a pianist at Leon & Eddie's night club in New York City, began playing popular music. Fifteen minutes later the party was resumed.

erations were continued yesterday with satisfactory results.

"In one sector our forces carried out a successful attack and operations are proceeding according to plan in the spite of stiff resistance by the enemy."

"Many prisoners were taken. In the Gafsa-Maknassy sector, there was local activity but no major attack developed."

"In the north, on the First Army front, our patrols were active, making reconnaissance in force, inflicting casualties on the enemy and taking some prisoners."

"Air operations on the night of March 25-26, our bombers carried out extensive operations against enemy troop concentrations and lines of communications."

Destroy Many Vehicles

"Yesterday light bombers, fighter-bombers and fighters maintained attacks on enemy positions and transport, destroying many vehicles. Medium bombers attacked the railway south of Tunis, and an enemy airfield, where fires were started."

"Eight enemy aircraft were destroyed during the day, one of our aircraft is missing from all these operations."

"Last night a few enemy aircraft dropped bombs in the Algiers area. There were a very small number of casualties and little damage was done. Two enemy bombers were destroyed."

Battlefront reports indicated hand-to-hand fighting between the Eighth Army and German forces. American motorized columns, driving down the Gafsa-Sfax highway, made steady progress after crushing Axis counter-attacks."

Conquer Or Gabes

American and British spearheads, pushing towards the east coast under cover of strong Allied air attacks, were converging on the Port of Gabes, 30 miles north of the Mareth fortifications.

Nazi Field Marshal Erwin Rommel was putting up desperate resistance to the Allied offensive which threatened to pocket his army on the Mareth Line, but the American and British assaults grew steadily.

Allied bulletins gave little information on the progress of the mounting battle but a French communiqué, broadcast by the Algiers radio, said Sir Bernard Montgomery's Eighth Army vanguards had made "appreciable gains" in hand-to-hand fighting on the north end of the Mareth Line in the area of the Wadi Zig Zaou.

American forces under command of Lieut. Gen. George S. Patton, Jr., were reported to be moving steadily towards the Tunisian east coast in the face of desperate resistance by the Axis defenders who fought bitterly to protect their coastal supply road.

London, March 27.—Bayonet charges by advanced units of the British Eighth Army have driven Axis troops from positions in the forward areas of the Mareth Line, the Algiers radio reported today.

"The Eighth Army is attacking the enemy with bayonets and has gained some ground," he broadcast stated.

Terrific sustained assaults were being made constantly on Axis supply lines, airfields and troop concentrations throughout the fighting areas. One of the strongest aerial assault was made on the railway station at Skhirra, 30 miles north of the Port of Gabes. Direct hits were scored on a supply train which broke in two.

At Oudref, 10 miles northwest of Gabes, enormous fires visible for 60 miles were started when supply dumps were blasted. Harbor jetties burst into flames when the Port of Sfax was raided. The whole length of the Gabes-Sfax road supplying Axis armies in the Mareth area was bombed repeatedly.

SCHOOL PLAY AUDIENCE CAUGHT IN BLACKOUT

by Kathryn Duff, Mavis, her sister (Ella Mae Heath); Lydia, the mother, who was too busy addressing women's clubs to pay attention to her family (Helen Vancouver); Gram (Thelma Cohen), who ran the house and knew what was going on in the family; Caleb (James Tilton), father of the household, who only knew what he read in the papers.

Mark Pringle (John Wasilewski), couldn't get anyone interested in his plans for a chicken farm until "Ally Ann Higgins" came along. Sally had been planted as a maid.

Norman Porter (William Moorehouse), a publicity man, as a build-up in connection with her getting the coveted movie part of Dimity West. This was the part that Penny had her eyes on, but neither she nor Sally got it when Harrison Day (Arthur Bergland), talent-scouting author, saw Mavis.

Sub-Plot

In the meantime Penny's boy friend Kerry (Keith Brooks) disguised himself as Harrison Day to try to persuade Penny that she was not a budding movie star. Those who were involved in this sub-plot were Penny's friend, Joanna (Joann Myers), Kerry's pal Greg (Paul Richards), Monsieur Henri (John Carlin), models Claire, Elsie and Lucile (Carol Boyd, Virginia Barton, and Patricia Kradell), and a delivery boy (James Richards).

The play was directed by Miss Clara M. Hartstuf, to whom Keith Brooks, on behalf of the senior class, presented an orchid corsage after the second act curtain.

The entire cast performed splendidly in the evening's presentation. Overture music and music during intermissions was by the senior high school band, under the direction of J. L. Repligle.

After the third act curtain the audience was requested to remain in the hall during the blackout, and with Keith Brooks acting as master-of-ceremonies, an impromptu program, including selections by the band, a vocal solo by Helen Vancouver, and two piano numbers by John Carlin, entertained the audience until the "all clear" came.

bristle with Nazi pillboxes and other strongpoints which may slow the Russian advance.

Strong Russian defenses on the Belgorod sector, between Kharkov and Kursk, broke up German attacks and cost the enemy many casualties, said the Soviet news communiqué. Red army units crashed into enemy lines and wiped out one company of German infantrymen.

Germans Send Reserves

German reserves flowed into the Donets front, north and south of Kharkov where the enemy was attacking under cover of heavy tank and air support. The Soviet communiqué said all enemy attacks were repulsed in fierce fighting which cost the Germans heavy casualties and much of their tank and motorized equipment.

In the drive on Smolensk from the east Soviet spearheads overran two fortified villages and killed 900 enemy troops. The Red army drove the defenders out of several towns on the approaches to Dukovniko.

An indication of desperate German attempts to reinforce front line positions both with men and equipment was found in a report of the Soviet air force which told of blasting 100 Nazi trucks loaded with troops and war materiel.

"Flak was bursting all around us and searchlights were trying to pick us up. But nothing did much good because of the clouds."

"As we circled over Duisburg I saw several bombs bursting in the target area. Then suddenly there were three large explosions, each lasting about ten seconds."

"Right below I could see a large fire which turned the clouds above to a vivid red. We dropped our bombs in the middle of it."

Essen Raided March 12

The Ruhr district was last raided on March 12 when Essen suffered one of the heaviest RAF attacks yet. Launched against the Reich, recent neutral dispatches said that normal life in Essen had been completely disrupted and that several thousand workers of the huge Krupp munitions works had been sent to Czechoslovakia to work in the Skoda plant.

The RAF daylight attacks were directed at shipping and communications lines on the occupied coast. A British naval dive bomber attacked four Axis minesweepers off the French coast near Boulogne. One of the enemy ships was hit and probably sank, said an air ministry announcement.

'A MULTITUDE OF NEW OFFICES'

WITH each re-reading, Prime Minister Churchill's speech of last Sunday acquires deeper and broader significance for Americans as well, doubtless, as for Britons. As an instance, he said, almost casually, that "we must beware of trying to build a society in which nobody counts for anything except the politician or official . . . Of all races in the world our people would be the last to consent to be governed by bureaucracy."

Americans don't want to be governed by bureaucracy either. They don't want to be at the beck and call of big and little politicians whose jobs, paid for by all the taxpayers, have been brought into being by myriad Federal agencies which should be regarded as temporary, not permanent, expedites.

Many years ago the founders of this Republic wrote into the Declaration of Independence a fervid denunciation of "a multitude of New Offices" and of "swarms of officers" sent "to harass our people and eat out their substance." The same protest holds good today. Our own government leaders would be well advised to take a leaf from Mr. Churchill's book of wisdom and guard against the building of a society dominated by politicians and bureaucrats.

SHELLS FOR THE SHOTGUN

Hunters are showing interest in efforts to persuade government officials to release shotgun shells for the fall hunting season. They are being appealed to by sporting magazines, arms makers and others interested in the business of hunting to lift their voices in the chorus for more shotgun shells.

One argument to get the government to permit manufacturers to make some shotgun shells for hunting is that the bag of game will aid in alleviating the meat shortage. Figures are being presented to show how many millions of pounds of game find their way to tables each season. Perhaps the game costs many times what an equal poundage of meat would cost, but if millions of pounds of meat can be provided by issuing ammunition to hunters the meat shortage will be less severe.

It is probably not a vain hope that game ammunition will be available next autumn in limited quantities.

GLAMOROUS ROAD

In the United States there are a million fine young singing voices—more or less—a certain number of the owners of which are ambitious for a career in the opera.

They have many auditions, local, regional and sometimes national, and a few win a final chance to storm the stage door of the Metropolitan Opera in New York. It is a trying trail to that point, but all things considered, including the visions of youth, it is the most glamorous road America offers.

Patrice Munsel, who is 17, of Spokane, Wash., a coloratura soprano, and Christine Johnson, 26, of Hopkinsville, Ky., have just taken it. Each won a Metropolitan contract, a cash prize of $1,000 and a silver plaque.

It will be interesting to watch their careers. They have yet to meet the hard-boiled critics and the whimsical public, barriers which succumb as frequently to hard work and luck as to talent.

TAKING CHANCES

Nazi strategy in launching an offensive in southern Russia has military students in the United Nations speculating. Recapture of Kharkov by the Axis is a minor achievement, compared to big issues in the Russian campaign. Hitler blasted his way into Russia to get oil and food. The German armies have overrun a splendid agricultural section of Russia but they lost the oil fields which were all but in their grasp. Perhaps Hitler still clings to the hope of again breaking through to the oil fields.

There is an impression in Allied circles that Hitler used Austrians, Hungarians, Rumanians and Italians and saved the German forces in the fierce battles for Stalingrad, the Caucasus and Donets Basin. This was given credence by the announcement that most of the troops used in the recent drive back to Kharkov was made by German divisions brought from western Europe.

Hitler's military master minds seem to have concluded that the United Nations were not ready to invade continental Europe so took the risk of weakening western European defenses. The Nazis will be forced to take other chances as the Red army continues to pound them hard.

The next chance the Nazis take is likely to be followed by a surprise blow either in southern Europe or on the coast of France, Belgium, Norway or the Balkans.

GASOLINE THEY CAN'T GET RID OF

"A"-book motorists who are trying their patriotic best to save gasoline but who wonder how they're going to get their necessary chores done on the reduced ration, will be interested in the perplexing case of Charles Myers, oil lease operator near Tidououte, Pennsylvania, who, according to The Titusville Herald, has 15,781 gallons of gasoline in storage and can't sell it or give it away.

Titusville knows its oil. It was there, on August 27, 1859, that the first commercial well in America produced 20 barrels. Ever since, Titusville, Pennsylvania, has been almost a synonym for the highest grade oil. So, when The Titusville Herald comments on the fact that not only Charles Myers but many other oil lease men in that area have large quantities of gasoline they can't get rid of, motorists may be sure that the situation merits comment.

Gasoline rationing started last year on a basis of necessary fuel economy. After a few months it was represented as vital to rubber conservation. Now it seems to be a straight gasoline-saving proposition. The Army and Navy need all the gasoline they can get to win the war and every right-minded driver wants to help them get it.

But if producers in the heart of Pennsylvania oil field have thousands of gallons of gasoline which, due to various restrictions, they can't get rid of, a question arises as to just how it comes about that the eastern seaboard is represented as facing an increasingly stringent shortage. —Philadelphia Inquirer.

It is rumored that Rex Tugwell may be made our ambassador to Russia. No doubt the Puerto Rican senate would approve the nomination unanimously if called on for action.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

PREPARE CHILDREN FOR FATHER'S INDUCTION

In the near future, thousands of fathers, even fathers of young children, will be inducted into the armed forces. Wholesome emotional preparation of the child or children for this trying family experience will require considerable wisdom, tact and self-control by the parents, relatives and neighbors, more courage by the mother, in many cases, than by the father.

Already considerable emotional harm to some children has been done through unguarded remarks and the uncontrolled expression of anxiety and grief.

A complicating agent in some homes will be the fact that while one family of small children will have to contribute the father to serve in the armed forces, a next door neighbor, or even older or grown children will be going off each morning to work in a safe place and come back home each evening.

While the general public the essential fairness of this rule is appreciated, to some individual mothers and their children it will appear very unjust.

One consolation to the family giving up a father is in the assurance that many a family who now appear to be lucky would give anything to have their father back.

It will help the mothers and children whose husbands and fathers are called to the colors to accept their obligations most willingly if all the members of those families who are not called upon for like sacrifice, shall prove very faithful on their jobs at production and if their children shall prove good neighbors and citizens.

Looking forward to the fathers' induction, he and the mother can prove most kind to the child by avoiding any sad or morbid reference to the task or to the war in general and by going on as nearly normal as possible all he is called, and having good times in the family. I can say this with some understanding, yet with emotions back of it, for my two older children were about four and two when I entered the armed forces of World War I. Their mother and I tried hard to do as I am advising here. I am glad we did. One of those children will shortly send her husband and the father of their baby of nine months to the Navy.

Let me suggest, moreover, that as a rule children and the mother do not go to the station to see the father off, until he returns from his first furlough. No matter how stoical they may be, the sight of other weeping mothers and sobbing hearts of departing soldiers would be too trying on the heartstrings of the children. I wish no relatives would attend these send-offs unless they are sure they can fully control themselves.

Form Youth Choir At Epworth Church

Group Of 30 Young People To Take Part In Services At Epworth

A new choir known as the Professional Youth Choir will participate in the services at Epworth Methodist church on Sunday. This choir is composed of 30 young people and will supplement the adult choir in the programs and services of the church. From time to time it will present numbers only its own personnel and will appear exclusively in some of the services of the church.

The choir has been attractively robed in keeping with the attire of the senior choir and adds considerably to the inspirational and worship values of the service as it features a professional and joins in the service generally. It is also being developed as a speech choir and is at present taking the leading part in the responsive scriptures read at the services.

The choir is under the direction of Mrs. Anna Pyle, the church organist and director, and Miss Leona Sankley is cooperating as general supervisor.

First Methodist Revival Continues

Dr. Burr R. McKnight, new pastor at the First Methodist church, is his own evangelist in a series of old fashioned revival meetings on Sunday nights at 7:30, until Palm Sunday, April 18.

Dr. McKnight was trained by Dr. J. Wilbur Chapman who became the successor of Dwight L. Moody as the outstanding evangelist in this country in his time. Dr. McKnight was his pupil at the great Bible Conference, at Winona Lake, Indiana, in the days when Billy Sunday was Dr. Chapman's advance man, and got his experience and training from both of these great leaders.

Much interest is being shown in these meetings. Each evening special music is presented by the Victory quartet, and Dr. McKnight conducts an old fashioned altar service, as the founders of Methodism used to conduct it years ago.

Ship Crippled By Axis U-Boat Returns Attack

Torpedoing Of U. S. Merchantman In Atlantic
Cost Two Lives
Out Of 54

(International News Service)
MIAMI, Fla., March 27.—The story of how a damaged U. S. merchant vessel turned to attack an Axis submarine after being torpedoed was told today by John B. Martin of New York, captain of the ship.

Captain Martin told his story after he arrived in Miami by plane from a Caribbean seaport.

The attack occurred before dawn early in March off the northeast coast of South America and cost the lives of two of 54 members of the crew.

Captain Martin said a torpedo was shot across his bow at 5 a. m. And that a moment later, another struck just back of the bow, tearing a big hole in the side of the vessel. He sighted the ship and then the Navy gun crew, under

Lieut. F. Feeney of Scranton, Pa., opened fire on the U-boat as it was submerging.

Sub Hits Again
The captain turned off his engines and stood by, certain that he could save the boat if not attacked again. At 6:10 a. m., the submarine came to the surface again, he said, and fired a torpedo that blew the engine room to pieces.

Fortunately the crew of the engine room had been on deck having coffee. But Feeney was thrown against the mast, and though he crawled back to the bridge and later was placed in a life boat, it was discovered when he landed ashore that he was severely injured. He was placed in a hospital and is expected to recover.

Sinks In Hour
The merchantman was abandoned and went down by the stern an hour later. The survivors were picked up by a patrol boat and taken to a port. One man was killed in the explosion and another died in a life boat.

Feeney tried to direct fire at the submarine from the bridge after his injury until it was found that the ammunition was wet and control services disorganized. Feeney has been recommended for a decoration for bravery and the gun crew has been commended.

A free press can tell people the truth, but Alas! it can't make them believe facts they don't want to believe.

Forty-six guests enjoyed an evening of square dancing, with music furnished by the Williams brothers. Refreshments were served.

Several other soldiers were standing close by, and began staring at the corporal. The corporal blushed as eyes became fastened on his shining nails—as neatly polished as a co-ed's.

"Look you guys," bellowed the corporal. "In my work you gotta have it, see? It's protection."

All the other soldiers lifted their eyebrows skeptically. The corporal, however, finally convinced them.

The corporal said that most of the men in the Bainbridge post photo section protect their nails with polish to keep developing fluids from turning them black.

Over 100,000 Cans Collected

Amazing Record For Week
Made By Pupils Of Schools

FIVE SCHOOLS HAVE NOTABLE RECORDS

If the interest of school children keeps mounting in the collection of tin cans in Lawrence county, and it keeps mounting every week, the median for the city and county will be 100% instead of that figure being the peak of endeavor.

Five schools in the city and county turned in 100 per cent records this week, according to figures released by Ross D. Rosenberger, chairman of the Lawrence County Council of Defense. In order to award the championship pennants this week it was again necessary to take the average collection per pupil and using this as the basis, St. Michael's school won the city pennant for the third time with an average of 62 cans per pupil. In the county district, Hillsville won for the consecutive time with an average of 21 cans per pupil.

Individual Winners
For St. Michael's the individual winner was Joseph Melichar, 13, grade 7 with 687 cans. He also won last week. For Hillsville Anthony Crist, 12, grade 5, was high with a collection of 352 cans. Both of these young men will be interviewed over Station WKST Tuesday night, March 30, at 6:20.

In the case of St. Michael's this school gets permanent possession of the pennant and a new one will be awarded to the high school next week. Hillsville has to win their pennant next week again in order to get permanent possession.

Thaddeus Stevens again turned in an outstanding record with 100 per cent collection and an average of 31 cans per pupil. Oak Street had 100 per cent with an average of 20 per pupil, and West Side had 100 per cent with an average of 12 per pupil. New Wilmington High school was second in the county with 98.7 per cent collection.

This week's grand total of cans collected is something to cheer about, 102,356 cans being turned in, 70,293 from the city and 32,063 from the county. This means slightly better than an average of one can per person for every man, woman and child in the county. It is probably a national record for cities and counties twice as large as New Castle and Lawrence county still have a long way to go to equal this total. A few schools are not reported this week and Ellwood City is collecting its own cans and reporting them. The totals for the schools reporting this week follow, showing school, cans collected and percentage:

Underground Calls Dutch To Resist Nazi Labor Draft

(International News Service)
LONDON, March 27.—The population of occupied Holland has received an urgent underground call to "close ranks" against German labor conscription measures, Aneta, Netherlands News Agency, announced today.

Warning that "If we do not resist, we die," a pamphlet captioned "Netherlands people to arms" called on the population to risk their lives for "The last unavoidable fight," and outlined a detailed program of resistance.

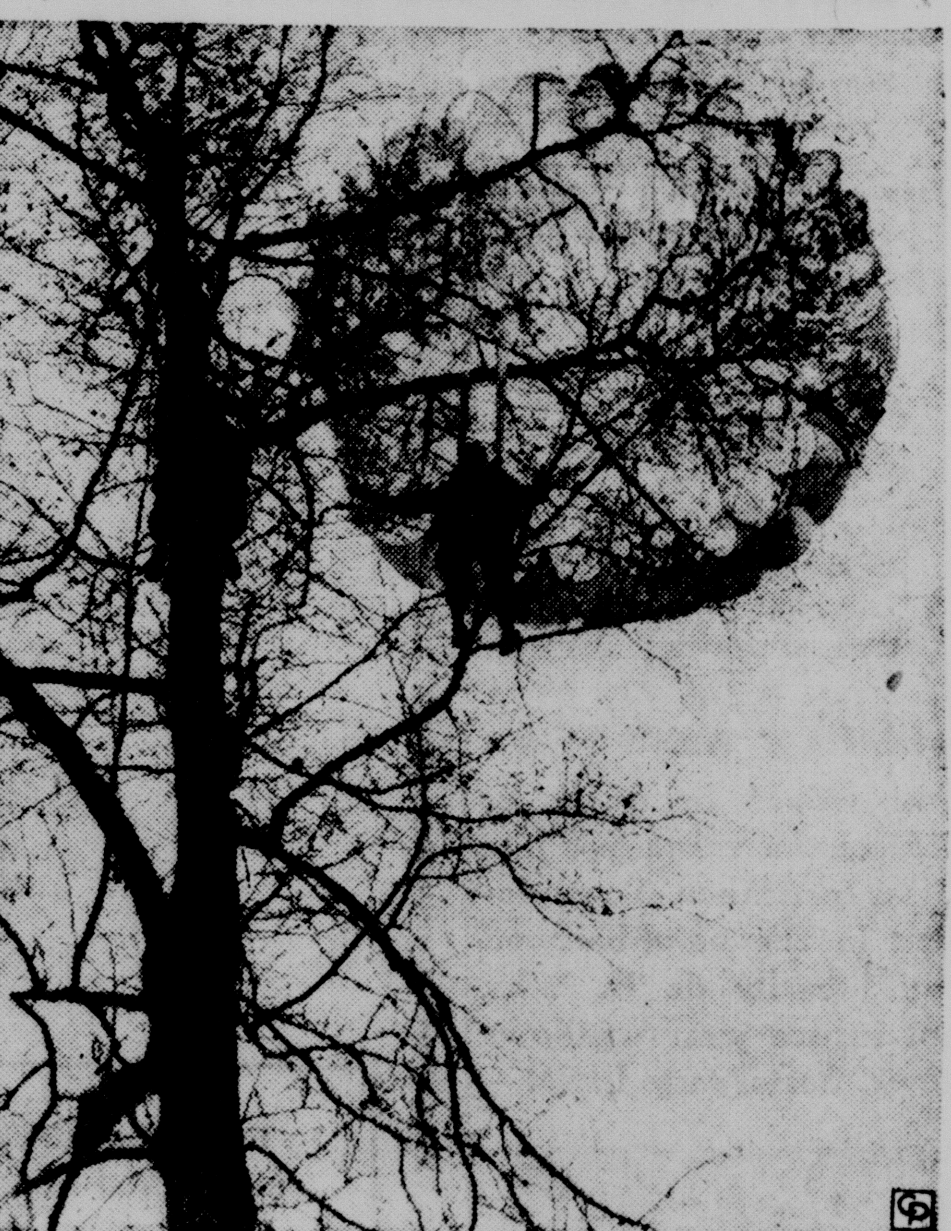

Meanwhile, Aneta said it had been informed by a Hollander who had just escaped to England that the labor draft was being speeded up and becoming increasingly ruthless.

Little Journeys Through JOHNSON BRONZE

JOHNSON UNIVERSAL BRONZE

Metal Conservation Started in 1933

Wasting metal is poor business in ordinary times . . . a form of sabotage in time of war. Back in 1933, we introduced Johnson UNIVERSAL Bronze . . . the first completely machined bar. UNIVERSAL Bronze contains Tin, Copper and Lead—three metals vital to our war effort. In the past ten years HUNDREDS OF TONS of precious metal have been saved by this new development.

Bronze bars are used principally for maintenance work. Manufacturers keep an assortment of sizes on hand for quick repairs to their machinery. One day they might require a quarter inch washer . . . the next day a three inch bearing. On such occasions they simply select the correct size . . . cut off the portion needed . . . true it up—and it's ready to be installed.

Before the advent of completely machined bars it was necessary to purchase them in the "rough." Rough bars have an extra quarter of an inch of metal on both the inside and outside diameter. Before a bearing or a part could be produced this excess metal had to be removed. Considerable man hours and machining time were required . . . plus the loss of the excess metal . . . plus the danger of hidden defects in the bar.

Industry accepted the new idea of completely machined bars so rapidly that Johnson Bronze had to create a separate department for bar production. Today you can see hundreds of tons of UNIVERSAL Bars . . . in over 350 sizes . . . flowing through from the foundry . . . to the broaches . . . to the machining operations. New casting methods . . . specialized machinery . . . skilled operators keep this vital war material going to the front in a steady stream.

Somewhere in Africa there's a mechanic that fully appreciates the time saving feature of complete machining. In a repair shop, located in a tent . . . completely blacked out . . . he's making a new part for a tank that will see action at dawn. The UNIVERSAL bar he is using is sound and true . . . the quality is apparent from end to end. No danger of hidden defects . . . no excess metal to cut away and waste. Producing a new part is a matter of minutes . . . rather than hours.

Johnson UNIVERSAL Bars provide an excellent example of the vision and resourcefulness of the men and women at Johnson Bronze. They saw the need . . . they found the answer. The result? More Johnson UNIVERSAL Bars are sold every day than all other brands combined!

100 BILLION DOLLAR INCOME SEEN FOR U. S. BY PLANNING

(International News Service)
CHICAGO.—By adequate planning now, a national annual income of more than $100,000,000,000 could be built up after the war, according to Dr. Charles E. Merriam, professor emeritus of political science at Chicago University, and vice-chairman of the National Resources Planning Board.

But essential to this goal is the laying of immediate groundwork by private business, and national state, and city governments, Dr. Merriam said. Every governmental unit, he said, must plan the "healthy" development of private enterprise.

Under a system of full employment, he continued, "American workers can produce annually more than $100,000,000,000 worth of goods and services. A national income of more than $100,000,000,000 thus is perfectly possible."

Sons Are Given Morgan Estate

Some Special Bequests Are Made In Will Of Late J. P. Morgan

(International News Service)
MINNEOLA, N. Y., March 27.—Bulk of the reputed $50,000,000 estate of the late J. P. Morgan has been bequeathed to his two sons, it was learned today following filing of the will in the court of Surrogate Leon D. Howell.

Singularly, both the principal beneficiaries, Junius Spencer and Henry Sturgis Morgan, are on active duty with Uncle Sam's Navy; the former, a commander and the latter a lieutenant-commander.

The 27-page, 6,000-word testament was dated December 28, 1942, and in addition to the Wall Street wizard's sons named as beneficiaries his daughters, various relatives and employees, all of whom were generously remembered.

Specific Bequests
First mentioned were eight specific bequests of $25,000 each to his two sons, his two daughters, Mrs. Jane Norton Nichols and Mrs. Francis Tracy Penoyer; his daughters-in-law, Mrs. Louise Converse Morgan and Mrs. Catherine Adams Morgan, and his sons-in-law, George Nicholas and Paul Geddes Penoyer.

In addition to the outright bequests, both sons are to share in the residue of the estate.

Most generously remembered outside the family was the Protestant Episcopal diocese of Long Island which is to receive $150,000 for the benefit of St. John's church, Lattingtown, N. Y., of which Mr. Morgan was a member or many years.

Get Remembrances
Belle Da Costa Green, director of the Pierpont Morgan library, established by Morgan in memory of his father, John Axten, are to receive $50,000 each, while the superintendent of the Morgan Glen Cove, N. Y. estate is to get $30,000.

Bequests to other employees include $25,000 to Butler Cecil Stanley Phisick, $20,000 to Valet Bernard Stewart; $20,000 to Chauffeur Charles Robertson, and $5,000 to Assistant Secretary Albert C. Lange. Numerous other gifts were specified to employees, many of which are living in England. Largest of these was 5,000 pounds to John Langley, an agent of London.

Explaining that they were amply cared for under their father's will, Morgan made no provision for his three sisters, Mrs. Louisa Pierpont Satterlee, Mrs. Juliet P. Hamilton and Miss Anne Morgan.

OFFICERS WILL APPEAR BEFORE MAYOR WAYNE

TRUCK DRIVERS ARE PARTNERS OF UNCLE SAM IN THIS WAR

Guns and tanks piled up in a factory warehouse aren't helping to drive Rommel out of Tunisia. Plane parts and ammunition are no good to a soldier unless they get to him.

That's where Uncle Sam's partners, the truck drivers, come in. They know the importance of getting a load through on time. Day and night these gentlemen of the highway are bridging the distance between the factory and the loading dock.

Weather means nothing to them, hours are unimportant, they have a job to do—an important job for their partner Uncle Sam—and they are doing it cheerfully, resolutely and efficiently.

In the creed of the truck driver there is only one thing that is of paramount importance—get the load through. And they are doing it. They're putting out for Uncle Sam—and for the peace of the world. Uncle Sam knows he can depend upon his truck driver partners.

Jameson Hospital Nurses Aides Soon Ready For Graduation

Women not only play a heroine role in taking mens jobs in ammunition factories, piloting an airplane, welding, being a good mechanic, servicing automobiles and other undertakings so far as Uncle Sam is concerned. There is another group who are doing a tremendous job on the home front that comes under the category of Angles of Mercy—and has reference to the Nurses Aide class at Jameson Memorial hospital, presently being instructed by Mrs. Louise Isaacs.

This field made possible through the American Red Cross has proven highly successful and is a Godsend to humanity. This fact is realized more and more right here in New Castle, as classes have already been completed at Jameson Memorial hospital, and with excellent results.

At present, the class under the supervision of Mrs. Louise Isaacs, has shown continued progress, and beginning Monday, will be working on the floor of the hospital to complete the required 80 hour course. Upon graduation, they will be full fledged Nurses Aides. In this group are, Mrs. Harry McClintock, Mrs. P. J. Jamison, Mrs. J. A. McNeill, Mrs. Harry Zimmerman, Mrs. Leonard Cramer, Mrs. A. W. Graham, Mrs. A. C. Gardner, Mrs. T. I. Elliott, Mrs. J. F. Rantz, Mrs. H. E. Rappold, Miss Jean Glenn, Mrs. Margaret Holliday, and Mrs. G. A. Phillips.

The work as planned by Mrs. Isaacs, has proven interesting and instructive. The class feels they are doing a good service, in addition to receiving training they will have for a lifetime. Their reasons found by the reporter for the women en-

Retailers May Get Pork Ceiling Prices

Meat retailers of Lawrence county may now get the ceiling price schedule for pork and pork products, according to Robert A. Eckles, executive secretary of the Lawrence County War Price and Rationing Board.

It is important for the retailers to get these prices and the schedules are now available in the ration office in the Aiken school building on Pearson street.

When a she-ass gives birth to a foal sired by a stallion, the offspring is called a "Himmy," not a mule. The himmy resembles a horse more than a mule does.

OCD NOTES

Activities Of OCD Workers Are Outlined Here

AWAIT INSTRUCTIONS

Gas masks are on hand and will be distributed for training purposes and for OCD workers' use as soon as instructions on distributions are received. The masks that will be issued to different groups are not to be used because use will deteriorate the canister. Therefore, the Federal OCD is allotting a specified number of masks for training purposes. These are the ones that will be used to train different persons in the use and care of gas masks. Others will be kept ready for emergencies.

Hard suction pipe for the auxiliary pumps has arrived at the local OCD warehouse. This has been holding up the installation of auxiliary fire companies' pumps. It is expected that in the coming week pumps will be tested, and instructions given to auxiliary firemen who will operate these pumps.

New classes for OCD workers are starting in several parts of the city. They need your help in getting new recruits for the different branches of civilian defense work. If you do not know where new classes are being conducted, a telephone call to city OCD office 6586 will give you the time and place of the class nearest to you.

Health Talks

By DR. W. A. WOMER
City Health Superintendent

GARNISHES

A good cook likes to make things look good as well as taste good. Parsley and such things make a dish look pretty.

Paper handles on chicken drum sticks look pretty too, but they don't taste very good.

All the fresh green vegetables should be eaten.

Green peppers and lettuce and carrots look fine all dolled up with orange and grapefruit and pineapple.

Cut them up, put your favorite dressing on and eat them right away before the vitamins evaporate.

If you want lots of pep, get, grit and gumption, eat plenty of fresh stuff.

Meat and spuds keep the old engine turning over but you must have the vitamins to win the war.

USE PUTTY

Fill cracks in a tool box with putty to keep out damp air and prevent rusting of tools.

DESERTER GETS FIVE YEAR PRISON TERM

(International News Service)
PHILADELPHIA, March 27.—Richard Anderson, 31-year-old army deserter, was sentenced on Friday to five years in prison upon his plea of guilty to seven indictments charging him with robbing service men in the downtown YMCA.

"I know I have disgraced my uniform," Anderson told the court "but I'd like to get another chance."

Judge Curtis Bok pointed out, however, that Anderson knew his outfit was North Africa bound when he deserted last December "to see a girl friend."

Air Forces Spring Surprises On Rommel's Tank Corps In Tunisia

By CLINTON GREEN
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

SOMEWHERE IN TUNISIA, March 27.—The allied air forces are using a "secret weapon" against Axis tanks and armored vehicles in Tunisia and are running up successes that make the enemy gasp. This correspondent is able to disclose today.

"Obviously, it is impossible to reveal full details of this hard-forged allied weapon, but our air forces are so far ahead of the enemy the only possible thing for the Axis to do is play 'catch up'."

It is extremely doubtful whether they will be able to catch up.

The Royal Air Force started developing the weapon several months ago and is already labeled an "aerial tank-buster."

Since opening of the eighth army offensive against the Marek line the following is a round-figured summary of the work done by these fighters in the course of three days:

One flight reported six motor vehicles destroyed and a tank damaged, while another flight speeding through the air with this formidable weapon scored hits on 32 tanks, destroying at least nine and an additional four armored cars and trucks.

Official Washington welcomed Eden's assurances, given in a speech at Annopolis last night, that Great Britain will not let the United States and China down when the time comes to launch an all-out offensive against Japan.

Eden told a joint session of the Maryland General Assembly that the British will not rest upon their arms "until every one of our enemies has unconditionally surrendered."

"We, no less than you, and our partner China," he said, "have a score to settle with the Japanese; nor shall we cease fighting until that evil growth in the Pacific has been cut back. We shall be with you in this to the end."

Eden also told China not to "mis-doubt us."

"We shall not forget how for years she resisted aggression single-handed," he added. "The day will come when the Burma road will once again be open."

Victory Garden Notes

(By LEWIS C. DAYTON)
(Asst. County Agent)

PREPARATION OF GARDEN SOIL

The importance of thorough preparation of the garden soil cannot be overestimated. In fact, no amount of excellent care later in the season will make up for the lack of good soil preparation before the garden is planted.

Stirring the soil deeply increases its capacity for holding both air and moisture. The soil should be plowed or forked over to a depth of 8 or 9 inches if it is possible to do this without turning up the subsoil. Fall-plowing is desirable if a heavy sod or heavy coat of straw manure is to be turned under.

The straw or other coarse organic matter will decompose during fall and early spring and be more readily available for early crops than if turned under in the spring. Fall-plowed ground, left in the "rough" (not smoothed over) during the winter, will dry out earlier and planting can be begun earlier in the spring.

The time required to pulverize the soil thoroughly and deeply is very well spent. If seeds are planted in course, lumpy ground they will be irregularly covered and will germinate poorly. The best finishing or smoothing tool for the small garden is the iron rake. It is a most excellent pulverizer and leveler when properly used. Stones and rubbish should be raked to one side and buried or hauled away.

Some Troublesome Allied Diplomacy Situations Believed Cleared Up

By KINGSBURY SMITH
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, March 27.—British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden today is considered to have poured a little oil on the troubled waters of Allied diplomacy that were churned up by some aspects of Prime Minister Winston Churchill's Sunday broadcast.

Official Washington welcomed Eden's assurances, given in a speech at Annopolis last night, that Great Britain will not let the United States and China down when the time comes to launch an all-out offensive against Japan.

Secretary Wickard IS NON-COMMITTAL ABOUT RESIGNATION

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, March 27.—Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard on Friday declined to give a positive answer as to whether he would resign his post.

As Wickard hurried into the White House for the regular Friday cabinet meeting, reporters tried to halt him for questioning.

Declaring he was late for the meeting, Wickard kept walking, and a reporter shouted to him: "Mr. Secretary, do you intend to resign your post?"

"I don't think so," was Wickard's reply as he entered the cabinet room.
